

Fractora Facial: Look 8 Years Younger in 8 Weeks

February 15, 2013

Are you searching for something that can finally address deep wrinkles, pigment irregularities, blood vessels, and acne scars? Or something that can rival the result of plastic surgery, without all the downtime and expense of undergoing surgery? If so, then Fractora may be for you.

Fractora is now available for those of us wanting to look years younger in a relatively short amount of time, with results lasting several years with little to no upkeep. So who wouldn't want to give this latest and greatest procedure a try?

"It's like applying 60 tiny acupuncture needles in a tiny applicator to the skin," Dr. Jennifer Walden said in a recent interview with Todd Boatwright on Austin's YNN.

According to Dr. Walden's website

Fractora is several different technologies rolled into one— radiofrequency sound waves, not a knife, to help resurface, smooth, and tighten the facial skin. The device also has the ability to help reduce unwanted pockets of fat on different areas of the body with a switch of the applicator. Patients have the option of one big treatment or several smaller ones over a period of weeks. With no fuss, mess or downtime, Fractora may be the perfect fit for you and a solution to those problem areas you have always tried to fix.
